New York, Columbia University, Rare Book and Manuscript Library, Med/Ren Frag. 111

Description: f. 1r-v - The half-leather binding of the incunable that housed this leaf originates in southwestern Germany, possibly Heidelberg, as suggested by the stamps (?) and by the catches; there is reason, however, to suspect that the leaf was laid into the incunable at a later date, especially since a pastedown (the presumed mechanism for the leaf's survival) in a half leather binding would be unusual.

Notes:-Discovered lying loose in the incunable Goff P208 (ISTC ip00208000)in April 2010; removed and catalogued separately at that time. Goff P208 is Paulus Soncinus, Quaestiones in libros metaphysicae Aristotelis (Venice: Simon Bevilaqua, 28 September 1498).

Acknowledgments: - We are very grateful to Scott Husby for his identification of the binding of the incunable, and for raising the question of a pastedown in a binding such as the present one.
